

394
CHINA WAR.

Flames over Shanghai. More pictures from the battle zone where bombing and bombardment are the daily fare. China's great seaport is again subjected to a rain of metal that brings death to its inhabitants, while in all parts of this great city important buildings have burst into flame. Panic grips the famous Bund --- the waterfront --- as fear of another raid grips the heart of the bewildered Oriental population. In America President Roosevelt ~~has~~ made a speech in which he called on peace-loving nations to put aggressor states in quarantine. ~~But he emphasized that America is determined to keep out of war.~~ Meanwhile, in China, there is no peace nor yet a hope of peace. On the ^{very} borders of the International Settlement four blocks of buildings are blazing ---- ~~homes and temples of peace that are being razed to the ground.~~ Nanking, Canton, Shanghai --- the skies are red with the flames of conquest.