CHESSINGTON ZOO.

Introducing a film star and her babies. Beauty, the Tigress of the Chessington Zoo, has appeared in pictures; during a resting period she produced these little pictures on her own account. Even Alfred Hitchcock couldn't do that. The babies are named Snip, Snap and Snorum. Sally is the lioness and she also had a litter of babies. Here they are together with the young leopards named Whiskers and Fireworks. It is believed to be a record for a Zoo to produce three such litters in one year. And they're all doing well.
