

①
KING AT CRANWELL.

427

The Royal Air Force Training College at Cranwell was on parade for a visit of inspection by His Majesty King George, and bombers and fighters were lined up like guardsmen. The King arrived in the special plane provided for him by the ~~R.Y.X.X.X.~~R.A.F.... ~~It was~~ his second flight since the accession. After inspecting the cadets drawn up in a guard of honour, His Majesty walked over to ~~inspect~~ <sup>look at</sup> some of the planes and chat with the ~~officers~~ pilots. ~~His Majesty~~ was quite at home, ~~—~~, for he was stationed at Cranwell in 1917, and <sup>here</sup> he renewed acquaintance with many friends of his service days. Inspection over, the King left <sup>again</sup> by plane, ~~to the accompaniment of~~ ~~thunderous cheers.~~

He
Strangely enough, our foreign news this week also includes a story of a flying king. The young King Ghazi of ~~Iraq~~ <sup>IRAQ</sup>, son of King Feisal, is a progressive monarch with western ideas. He wears European clothes and he ~~pilots~~ acts as his own pilot.