

CLOUSTON FLIGHT

429

Flying Officer Clouston is out for new records --- in the plane in which Scott and Black broke the record to Australia he is hoping to break that same record --- and also the record to New Zealand. Before he left Gravesend the plane was christened by Lady Weigall in the presence of Mr S.M. Bruce, High Commissioner for Australia  $\frac{1}{2}$

When Clouston took off on his record bid he had as co-pilot Victor Ricketts, a reporter --- and together they hoped to complete the flight to New Zealand and back in nine days.

RUGBY.

Not for eight years have Scotland beaten Wales at Murrayfield, but this time a crowd of sixty-five thousand were destined to see a home-side victory. Scotland's were the fifteen in white shorts. The weather was poor and the light was none too good but the game was one of the most exciting ever seen in the huge Scottish arena.

First blood came to the Welshmen. Cliff Jones and Clement got together and Clement dribbled the ball over the line for McCarly to score a try. Great excitement --- but the rug that went up was a wet blanket for the try was not converted  $\frac{1}{2}$  ~~at~~ ~~before the interval McCarly intercepted a Scottish pass and went through Scotland's defence for a try. Great excitement --- but the rug that went up in the air was a wet blanket for the kick at goal failed.~~ Half time score --- Wales six --- Scotland nil

In the second half Scotland rallied and fought like supermen -- ~~and~~ a battering-ram attack sent Crawford over the line to score. The try was converted --- and then after eight years Scotland ~~at~~

429

RUGBY (contd.)

won with a penalty goal that made them eight points to six ---

Even now they're not happy!