

G.B.BALL.

439

It was a gala night at the film stars' ball --- and internationally-famous men and women scrambled for the balloons with all the zest in the world. Everywhere you looked there was a well-known face. Here is Lord Beaverbrook, chatting with Mr Mark Ostrer. There are Jessie Matthews and ^{Donnie Hale} --- and the new star, Margaret Lockwood. ^{Here is Louis Levy.} Graham Moffatt seemed to be in an expansive mood, ~~and here is Louis Levy~~ --- and here's everybody else. And now for the spectacular cabaret.

Exercises by Teachers and Students of the Health School.

Then --- the Trumpeters of Kneller Hall.

And to close an unforgattable evening --- an Empire Pageant, in the midst of European turmoil, the steady influence of a patriotic finale.
