

EGYPTIAN ELECTIONS.

449

Egypt --- at the foot of the ancient citadel in Cairo, electors registered their votes. They seemed more anxious to do so than British Electors usually are. Police were on the spot, but there were no demonstrations. The result of the elections was a great victory for the Government and the defeat of the National-Socialist Party. The new Chief of the Government is Mahomed Mahmoud Pasha, placed in power by the electorate for ~~for~~ four years.

HOLY FIRE FESTIVAL?

Palestine --- The Church of the Holy Sepulchre has recently been closed --- but previously the feast of the Holy Fire was observed. Twelve different churches do honour to the shrine --- this is religious zeal, ~~not~~ not a riot.
