BROUGH GYPSY HORSE FAIR.

Once again they held the celebrated Gypsy Horse Fair near Brough in the wilds of Westmorland

~~Our cameraman called in on the Gypsy folk to bring you these incidental pictures in the life of these sturdy men and women of the road.~~

The scene is set for a busy day--- but first it's time for washing and breakfast, the cooking is done over the log fire. No hot baths for these hardy folk, just a quick wash down in the open air.

The real business of the day begins when the men bargain away their horses. ~~Some of the ponies were a bit fresh-- small wonder in the keen air of the hills---~~

Fido looks after the stew, hoping to get a look in a bit later on, perhaps.

Then comes the business of running the horses for the buyers' inspection. Some of the ponies are a bit fresh - small wonder in the keen air of the hills

Finally the deal is clinched--- in Gypsy fashion-- fell
No writing at all ever enters into a Gypsy deal, - no receipt is given-- the Gypsy bond is the final, unwritten law.
