Another weapon, also much in use in Italy: the Priest Mobile Gun. The old method of drawing field guns into action backwards and turning them round is outdated by the self-propelled piece of artillery. ~~For the first time, the camera is enabled to get some descriptive~~ ~~descriptive~~ ~~get some descriptive/descriptive photos.~~ And while on the subject of weapons --- this armoured train, which looks almost like a toy. The engine driver in the centre has the comfort of light anti-aircraft guns ~~in~~ fore and aft.

In Bari, a Congress ~~was~~ <sup>was</sup> recently ~~held~~ held by the men who represent the Government of that part of Italy not under German control; notably Count Sforza, with his short white beard, and Senator Croce. ~~Angel has recently handed back the job of governing~~ ~~Italy and Sicily to these men;~~ but the Italian people are at present suffering from mental indigestion after twenty years of Mussolini and battle; finding the right kind of government to cure them is not as easy as it sounds in the advertisements.

Now from the Anzio front, further pictures of the bombing which has already been extensively covered; ~~the~~ Gaumont British News cameraman H.J. Morley was in a ship which received a direct hit, but he secured these pictures of the result. Well done!
