

Eisenhower addresses United Nations

The hopes of a troubled world are centred on the U.N. Building, in New York, where President Eisenhower was welcomed by Mrs Pandit, the President of the General Assembly, before launching his proposals for the control of atomic energy. After speaking of the need to pool atomic resources, the President warned the world in ~~what he described as the~~ <sup>DRAMATIC TERMS</sup>

~~"language of atomic warfare".~~ SOUND.

<sup>Now</sup> ~~Back~~ to London, where ~~a~~ <sup>The</sup> ~~Canopus~~ <sup>"Canopus"</sup> airliner arrived from Bermuda - bringing home Sir Winston Churchill from the Western Big Three Talks. (3)

After bidding farewell to M. Laniel, the French Premier, Sir Winston was warmly greeted - ~~complimented on the outcome of his mission.~~

~~Speaking of his long flight, the Premier said...~~
~~...~~
~~...~~

AND BEFORE THE MIGHTY ENGINES OF "CANOPUS" WERE SILENT, THE PREMIER HAD A FEW WORDS TO SAY ABOUT HIS LONG FLIGHT

(SOUND TO END)
