

Parliamentary Delegation in Kenya

Kenya - where a British Parliamentary Delegation, led by Mr Walter Elliot, met Chief Samuel Githu - (who was recently awarded the Queen's Medal for gallantry) - during their fact-finding tour of the troubled areas.

Later, the Delegation (~~which consisted~~ of six M.P's, representing the Government and Opposition) entered the Kikuyu Reserve - which is protected by an Anti-Mau-Mau stockade.

Here they heard the views of the local Schoolmaster and members of the Home Guard.

In the ^{well-defended} Fort Hall area of the Reserve ^{The Parliamentary delegates} (~~one of the best fortified places in the area~~) they inspected more Kikuyu Home Guard. Brave men who, by their service, are risking the vengeance of their fellow-tribesmen.

American rockets

America - where aircraft designers are using high-speed rockets to help in determining the shape of aeroplanes of the future.

The rockets are prepared for flight - each featuring a different type of wing construction.

And - off they go - each with a camera mounted inside, to film the reaction of the wings under top-speed flight.

Here's a successful design - battered by extreme air pressure at a speed of almost two thousand miles an hour - that wing comes through - ~~xxx~~ as steady as a rock.

The Davis Cup

Melbourne - where Australia's Ken Rosewall and Vic Seixas of America met in the Final singles of the Davis Cup.

Rosewall serving. And with the score two-matches all - it's a tense moment - for victory will give their country the top tennis honour...

Seixas wins the point.

Seixas serving. And he wins the second set six-two, to square the match.

Match point for Rosewall. A fine service. And Seixas nets. Australia keep the cup - (their fourth successive victory).
