Oxfordshire: Testimony to the great strides made in post-war aviation, a Squadron of B.47 Stratojets take off from Upper Heyford on a 5,800 mile non-stop flight to California. ^{Just} A routine ~~flight~~ ^{trip} that doesn't even make the head-lines!

Over the Atlantic, the giant planes were ~~re~~ twice refuelled in the air - and twelve hours after take-off - ^{they} touched down in California...

But for the air-crews, it was a flight worth making. You see, they landed at March Air Force Base - their home station - so let's leave them to their joyous re-unions.
