

Scotland V England at Hampden

(2114)

G.B.

134,000 fans at Hampden Park, Glasgow - and out in the middle, Billy Wright wins the toss for England.

On the terraces - are young Scot~~ish~~ fans who've yet to see the "auld enemy" beaten on home soil. Scotland kick off. The Hampden Roar spurs them on - After 17 years - that victory is long overdue.

~~on - After 17 years - that victory is long overdue.~~

Determined early attacks by the Scots. Then a reward - a corner.

~~Max~~ McKenzie floats it across. It falls like manna at the feet of Brown -

It's a goal.

Scotland one-up - but not for long. Finney finds an open space for Broadis, - and that's the equaliser.

The second half. Scotland having the better of play; but England get the goals. Nichols heads one home.

A free kick by Mullen. Ronnie Allen heads that one in.

More good work by Finney. And Mullen adds goal number ~~three~~ four.

England's biggest score in Scotland for over sixty years. Consolation for Scotland - Ormond's last minute goal....

Result: England 4 - Scotland 2. Now for that World Cup!!!
