R. C. (contd)

America: 148 starters for the famous Boston Marathon - a 26 mile get-together - that's anything but a tea-party.

Soon after the start, No. 1 Jim Peters (Britain's champion) had shaken off all his rivals except Karvonen of Finland. (No. 2)

Eight miles to go - and the Finn slowly forged ahead - to win by five hundred yards

Second was gallant Jim Peters. Short of training (his plane arrived many hours ~~late~~ ^{LATE}) he had struggled on - to ensure second place for Britain. ~~Then collapsed~~ ^{BEFORE COLLAPSING} at the post..
