

London: As Patron of the "Cutty Sark Preservation Society, the Duke of Edinburgh sailed down the Thames to Greenwich - to visit the permanent riverside home that is being prepared for the famous Clipper.

on the site, the Duke operated the giant pile-driver, which rammed home the key supports of the dry dock. And then - laid a commemoration stone - ~~with~~ using a mallet - made from ~~timber of the famous vessel,~~ <sup>part of Cutty Sark's timbers,</sup>

Here - ~~the Cutty Sark~~ <sup>she'll</sup> will stand - a fitting memorial to ~~the~~ <sup>the immortal</sup> days of sail... NOW A FLASHBACK TO SUSSEX - WHERE

~~in~~ Sussex, the Duke (driving his new Lagonda which has a radio link-up with Buckingham Palace) arrived at Cowdray Park, stripped ready for action - and his first polo match of the season... (3)

The occasion was the Final of the Leaf Cup - and the Duke (No. 2) was playing for The Mariners - ~~a~~ team formed in Malta last year ~~who play in the white frocks, worn by Naval cadets.~~

The Duke was in fine form, and crowned ~~it~~ a dashing solo run with the final goal in his side's four-two victory over Fernhurst.

After the match, Miss Sherman Douglas, daughter of the former U.S. ~~ambassador~~ Ambassador, presented the trophy.

~~And then they "filled it up" - a champagne occasion, this...~~

And then they "filled it up" A champagne occasion, this... But first - a gallant gesture by the Duke. Miss ~~ambassador~~ Douglas sips the victory cup - then it was the TURN of the thirty mariner.
