

London: "We will remember them!" A solemn pledge that is honoured anew on the tenth anniversary of "D" Day - by the British Legion ~~at the Cenotaph.~~ at the Cenotaph.

~~It's~~ It's ten years since that Army of Liberation, counted not the cost, as it landed on French soil. And ^{THE LEGION'S PRESIDENT} President Sir Ian Fraser (himself a war-blinded veteran) leads the tribute to their memory - and indeed, to all who fell in the service of their country.

Veterans from City, town and village march past the National Shrine - honouring the memory of those "who grow not old!"

YES - IT'S TEN YEARS SINCE THOSE NORMANDY LANDINGS
And now - on "D" Day plus ten years - a solemn pilgrimage is made to those ~~same~~ ^{SAME} beaches. To those well-kept cemeteries - with ~~these~~ ^{THEIR} ~~stone~~ ^{ABIDING MEMORIES} - bearing the name of staunch comrades and sadly-missed loved ones

[WITH THEIR PRESIDENT.]
Thousands of French men and women, ~~wives~~, joined the relatives and representatives from many British Regiments at Solemn Services on this Day of Remembrance.

[CORPS FIELD-MARSHAL/MONTGOMERY, WAS THERE HIMSELF]
on that fateful day in June - the initial footholds were gained on this stretch of coast-line. FOOTHOLDS THAT ^{LATER} PAVED THE WAY To be later consolidated and held, at a cost that FOR THE ALLIED MARCH OF LIBERATION IN EUROPE. seemed almost too heavy to pay, had not the freedom of Europe and of ~~mankind itself - been at stake.~~
