

After a night voyage from Tobago, the "Britannia" arrived off the Windward Isles, where Grenada- a tropical paradise,

~~_____~~ eagerly awaits the Royal visitor.

~~_____~~ At St George's, the Governor of the Islands- Sir Edward Beethman- extended a warm welcome to Princess Margaret- on behalf of the loyal islanders.

The "Britannia" could still be seen riding/at anchor, as ~~ixix~~ the Princess arrived at ~~St George's~~ ^{THE} Anglican Church, where the Bishop of the Windward Islands held a Service of Thanksgiving.

All too soon it's time for goodbyes- as the Royal launch ^{GLIDED} ~~_____~~ through the azure waters of the ~~_____~~ Caribbean back to the Royal Yacht, which was to take Britain's charming young Ambassador- ~~_____~~ eastwards to Barbados.

^{DURING THE} ~~_____~~ after a tremendous welcome from ~~ixix~~ the land of sugar and cotton,

Her Royal Highness made a brief stop at Kennington Oval cricket ~~_____~~ ^{Here-} ground. ~~_____~~ the Barbados and British Guiana/teams were presented to her, ON THE FINAL DAY OF THE "TEST".

During her four-day stay, the Princess and her Party were the guests of the Governor- Sir Robert Arundell (and Lady Arundell), at Government House- their official home, with its lovely gardens.

At a health centre ~~_____~~

~~_____~~ ^{APPROVAL} ~~_____~~ others proudly held up their healthy-looking babies ^{kindly word} ~~_____~~ And the Princess had a ~~_____~~ ^{_____} ~~_____~~ for them all.

~~_____~~
~~_____~~
~~_____~~
At a Children's Rally held at Garrison Savannah, the "Brownies" spoke their welcome with flowers. And then surely the highlight of this memorable Barbados visit, when the ~~_____~~ Princess drove in a Land Rover, through serried ranks of waving children.

What a wonderful memory for the Princess to take with her to the "Britannia"- for her next port-of -call- Antigua!