

London: City Welcome for the Princess

2210

The City of London paid well-deserved tribute to the recent Commonwealth Service of Princess Margaret - when she attended a Luncheon, given by the City Corporation, to mark her return from the West Indies.

Among the guests to welcome a charming Ambassador of Goodwill were the Archbishop of Canterbury and Lady Churchill (Sir Winston was prevented from attending by a cold) and Mr and Mrs Attlee.

After the Lord Mayor had invited the distinguished company to drink to the health of their Royal Guest, the Princess spoke about her first Commonwealth Tour. (SOUND)
