

Riots in Brussels

Brussels: Over sixty thousand Belgian Catholics staged a sit-down strike to demonstrate against the Government's proposals to cut the subsidy to ~~the~~ ROMAN CATHOLIC SCHOOLS.

Mounted Police soon stepped in to stop what might have developed into an ugly situation. ~~As a result~~ Clashes between police and demonstrators resulted in minor injuries ~~to~~ before calm was restored.

Volcano

Hawaii: Terror struck at villagers living near the crater of Kilauea as a volcano ~~erupted~~ burst into activity after lying dormant for well over half-a-century.

Rivers of molten lava slowly consumed the countryside - while the cameraman had to run for his life before the white-hot tide.

As the deadly stream moved to the water's edge - great clouds of steam testified to the violence ~~of~~ of one of Nature's most terrifying upheavals.

California - Uranium Rush

California - The 1955 Gold Rush is on, ~~as~~, under the watchful eye of the Atomic Energy Commission, prospectors rally for the "Uranium ^{um} Stakes" at Bakersfield.

History has repeated itself; but instead of the "Covered Wagon" gold-seekers with their picks and shovels, the modern prospector carries a geiger counter ^{before staking} and then stakes his claim.

The big Uranium drive is on - the search is for Uranium - and in a boom like this, the sky's the limit!

Russian Colonel's son flies West

Berlin: The ^{United States} Authorities have granted political asylum to Valery Lysikov - the 17 year-old son of a Soviet Air Force Officer, who recently escaped through the Iron Curtain.

The youngster made an earlier attempt, but was ~~caught~~ caught by the People's Police. Now he seems to like the look of life in the West.