

Sunderland: 58,000 fans at Roker Park. But to-day, the supporters of gallant York City are countless. For in factory, office and workshop, every soccer fan is with York in spirit, as they kick off against Newcastle - hoping to fill that vacant place at Wembley.

Less than three minutes later - comes a shock Newcastle goal - scored by White.

An early blow that can upset the best of sides. But York, (a Third Division side), are fighting to make Cup history, and back they come, storming into attack.

Soon after half-time, York were reduced to ten men (Stewart having been injured) - yet still they continued the fight.

Not until the final minute did York surrender - then Keeble headed a second goal. Newcastle now meet Manchester City in their tenth final - an all-time record.
