The Duke with Miners

29th April 1955

Wales: Men of the Welch Regiment honoured the Duke of Edinburgh - when he arrived to present the Charter of Incorporation - that were the emazi the end zing REVENSOR, OF WINT AMAZING TRonds SOUND (JOUND) After presenting the Charter (on behalf of the Queen) the Duke (wearing the ceremonial dress of a Colonel of the Welsh Guards) signed the Visitors Book , after a lattice diffranty with the date. SOUND Later, Prince Philip drove to Fernhill Colliery - passing en route some of the many miner's homes that are dotted around this valley of coal. At the Pithead, the Duke was reminded that Rhondda is a valley of song, too, as a choir of surface-workers greeted him a u ara a set the set The Royal Visitor had come prepared for the occasion - and wearing a shirt shirt and dungarees (reminders of his Naval days) he spent over an hour hundbed net underground . Several the service for song ond likes bals nusic CITEERS AND schoed around the coal face - to round off a memorable day for Rhondda

2225