

~~A well loved and large family~~
 A family on holiday, A family ~~destined to live~~ in the very forefront of public life. Every year, for a few short weeks, the Queen and the Duke, with their children, relax at Balmoral - ~~and~~ enjoying the carefree moments of a normal family life...

Like us all, when <sup>we</sup> on holiday, they are storing up happy memories and treasured snapshots for the family album. And ~~our~~ <sup>we are</sup> ~~Britain News~~ is privileged to ~~present this pictorial record~~ <sup>share this GLIMPSE</sup> of "The Holiday at Balmoral!" The Royal pets are "Sugar" and "Susan", the Queen's corgis - and "Andy", the Duke's golden retriever...

~~Following the pattern of her own upbringing,~~ <sup>the Queen's love of horses is well known - a love which the children share</sup> the Queen has fostered the love of horses in her children - and for them, the highlight of most days is feeding the ponies.

The bigger pony is ~~Prince Charles'~~ "Greensleeves" - and the other one is "William", ~~is~~ Princess Anne's favourite. ~~The children have~~ been having riding lessons and ~~so~~ are well accustomed to handling horses. Pause 10 seconds for some time

A strength that is enriched by a Happy Family life.
