NEW REGIME IN ARGENTINE

29th September 1955

Argentina: Once the stronghold of die-hard supporters of General Peron, this shell-blasted building in Buenos Aires is one of the few visible signs of the recent rebellion.

Following the ^{dictator's} downfall, ~~of the dictator~~, revengeful mobs sacked the Eva Peron Cultural Academy - ~~destroying~~ destroying the remaining symbols of the ~~fallen~~ ^{FALLEN} regime.

Violent scenes that are repeated throughout the country as the ~~people~~ people thankfully rid themselves of a hated Dictatorship.

In contrast, one of the greatest demonstrations ever seen in the Capital welcomed the leaders of the revolt. For many years an opponent of the Peron regime, ~~General~~ ^{GENERAL} Colonel Lonardi took the oath as the provisional Head of Government. His first act was to promise speedy constitutional elections.

The postscript to Peron's downfall comes from Pietra Santa, in Italy, There, Leoni Tommasi has worked for three years on this gigantic monument to Peron ^{AND HIS REGIME} - commissioned by the ~~Argentine~~ ^{ONE NEW} Government. of Argentina. So if you know anyone who wants a statue of General Peron - 450 ft. high.
