International news highlights

14th Oct. 1955

Arriving in Copenhagen Harbour, the Royal Yacht "Britannia" received a surprise visitor, King Frederick of Denmark - who went aboard to welcome the Duke of Edinburgh to his lovely country. The Duke's visit co-incided with the staging of the British Trade Feir part of which is being held in the famous Tiveli Cardens. By his detailed tour of the Exhibition - (the first to be held in Denmark for seven years) - the Duke was making a personal contribution to the vital drive to expand our world trade. Besides the representative sections of industry and commerce - fashions of every kind made a stylish addition to the "Buy British" campaign. But don't worry - we're not exporting "the local" This replice of a typical country inn is just our way of spreading international friendship Back home, the Thite City highlights international rivelry born of sincere admiration and friendship, as Buil Zatopek leads Gordon Piris and Ken Norris in the ten thousand matres.

SB. 2273

For years, Pirie has corresponded with the famous Czech. Now - unleashing a terrific sprint, he achieves his greatest triumph by defeating his idol over this distance for the first time....during the London-Prague match - sponsored by the Evening News.

rie's time was the fastest-ever recorded in Britain, and Ken Norris was second.

At Wembley, lightweight Brian Jones just couldn't wait to extend the gloved hand of friendship to Boris Golubenko - his Russian rival. This was the first visit of a Russian boxing team to meet Great Britain and both boys were soon making up for lost time. Always full of aggression, the Nottinghem boy cheered home-fans •

He gained one of our only two victories in reply to Russia's eight... Meanwhile, on waves of goodwill, a Soviet Naval squadron Ex (led by the cruiser Sverdlow) came sailing into Portsmouth Harbour.