

Coventry- Bombed Cathedral will rise again-

Mar 26th. '5

Coventry was in radiant mood when the Queen, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, paid her first visit to the city since her ~~xxxxxx~~ Coronation, and was received by ~~the~~ Lord Willoughby de Broke, Lord Lieutenant of Warwickshire, and the Lord Mayor- Alderman Dewis.

An inspection of the Guard of Honour was the prelude to the main ~~subject~~ object of <sup>the Royal</sup> ~~her~~ visit- the laying of the foundation stone of the new ultra-modern Cathedral.

Side by side with the old city- always a thriving industrial centre of the Midlands- rises a new Coventry- proudly showing its Sovereign the healed scars of war.

Inspecting a model of the reconstruction scheme, the Queen marvelled at the progress made in the rebuilding of the City Centre.

~~And~~ The Royal Visitors made a tour of the <sup>ruined</sup> 15th century Cathedral.

Her Majesty paused just as her father had done nearly 16 years ago, after that ~~xxxxxxxxxxxx~~ devastating <sup>AIR ATTACK:</sup> ~~night raid by the enemy.~~

At the entrance to the crypt chapel, the Archbishop of Canterbury, (wearing the glittering cope he wore for the Queen's Coronation,) <sup>stood</sup>

As the Party stood by the Sanctuary, they saw the ~~burnished~~ Coventry Cross of nails, which was recovered from the charred timbers of the old building.

So the Queen performed this most moving ceremony- a symbol of ~~vixx~~ victorious faith <sup>- SOUND -</sup> the re-birth of a noble House of God, that will, one day, stand ~~in~~ in the heart of this brave city.

Afterwards, the Royal Visitors toured the Jaguar Works. Here they inspected one car that is the world's most popular sports <sup>model</sup> ~~xxx~~ the XK 140. The Jaguar that has made its mark in sports car racing all ~~xx~~ ~~is~~ over the globe.
