

Exotic tropical fashions? No! This is what the well-dressed girl should wear on our beaches, this summer. At least, that's the view of sports designer, Teddy Tinling.

This collection was inspired by a visit to the South Pacific ^{AND THIS IS}
~~the "Tropical Jester" design - a brightly coloured, patterned design with magenta stripes to match her jeans.~~

For sailing days, this combination is aptly-named "Harbour breezes".
~~The loose fitting "Happy Feet" are also sailing and informal. The girl also wears a matching denim shorts.~~

Though striking cotton-prints are mostly featured, here's a departure from tradition. An all-wool playsuit, worn by film starlet Jill Ireland. The collection was called "an hour in the sun? That could mean we can expect an average summer. Anyway, with this sort of thing happening on the ^{beach} ~~beach~~ - no one will want to wear dark sun glasses.

Flowers are the theme of Mme. Simone Mirman's collection of Spring and Summer hats. ~~Their~~

~~The wave of tiny caps has gone out in favour of pill-box designs or high-crowned crowns. Some with small brims - some without.~~

This elegant model "Marguerite" suggests warm summer days when the daisies are peeping through the lawn.

~~While a cornflower colored hat looks like the~~

A garden motif to match the slow but sure arrival of Spring.

Among the many new designs - this Arabian-style taffeta turban brings an eastern flavour to western charm.

Finally, a study in black and white sophistication - just the thing for that morning outing ^{WITH FIBO} in the Park.