

Norfolk: Sunshine for a Spring Bride

Arriving at the village church of St. Withburga, Holkham, is Lady Anne Coke - eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Leicester. A lovely bride, matching the glory of the April day (BRING UP)

Three years ago, Lady Anne was a Maid of Honour at the Coronation of Her Majesty the Queen (BRING UP)

The groom was the Hon. Colin Tennant - eldest son of Lord Glenconner, who, with his bride, has long been a close friend of Princess Margaret. Lady Anne was a radiant figure in a gown of white organza and lace, embroidered in silver. She was attended by three pages - and three small maids of honour (BRING UP)

Gracing this "sunshine wedding" were Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother in blue, with a tulle, souffle hat, and Princess Margaret wearing navy blue and white with a Quaker bonnet. Royal congratulations mingled with those of the many well-wishers as the happy couple left for the reception (BRING UP)

A springtime occasion, too, in London when Princess Margaret attended a charity Ball at Grosvenor House. It was given by Christ Church, Oxford, United Clubs - whose object is to provide recreational centres in the poorest parts of S.E. London (BRING UP)

News Flashes

Boston Marathon

America: A really tough rehearsal in Olympic year - one hundred and sixty top runners from six countries, compete in the Boston Marathon. Run over the standard twenty-six mile course (not forgetting those extra yards - it proved a severe test for all except Antti Viskari of Finland. He proved a runaway winner in world record time, an Olympic champion in the making (BRING UP)

Fire

London: Our newsreel cameras were right on the spot to film the devastating fire that destroyed the Scripture Gift Mission, ^{near} Victoria Station - following a violent explosion. It's believed to have been caused by gas escaping into a boiler room in the basement (BRING UP)

The disaster brought injury to thirteen people - besides damage estimated at more than sixty thousand pounds (BRING UP)