Royal Children see the Show

15th May 1956

Windsor: The annual Horse Show - held in the grounds of their home - has become a favourite treat for Prince Charles, and Princess Anne. It's a special occasion, too, for their Mother, the Queen (<sup>who</sup> ~~she~~ is Patron of the Show) - and together, they watched the parade of high-stepping harness-ponies.

A thrilling event for the young onlookers was the Services Team-Jumping Competition - and they proudly watched the Queen present her own Challenge Cup to the winners, the King's Troop "A" Team, Royal Horse Artillery.

~~A~~ Royal ~~engagement~~ <sup>TRIBUTE TO</sup> the St. John Ambulance Brigade, when Princess Margaret, Commandant-in-Chief of the Cadet Force, attended a Parade, in Hyde Park, that was reviewed by the Queen.

The Duchess of Gloucester, too, is a tireless worker, and there were heartening words for many Commonwealth representatives, who are serving this splendid organisation in their own lands.

~~Later, accompanied by Countess Mountbatten, the Superintendent, in Chief, the Queen took the salute -~~ The first Reigning Sovereign to review the

Brigade for over forty years, THE QUEEN TOOK THE SALUTE -

~~THE~~ ACCOMPANIED BY COUNTESS MOUNTBATTEN, THE SUPERINTENDENT - IN - CHIEF.
