Monaco jumps into the news again - this time with the starting roar of high-powered Formula One Racing Cars - speeding away for the 195-mile Grand Prix...

Sixteen ace drivers - flashing round a two-mile road circuit - with tortuous bends that make it "the race with a thousand corners."
Fashionable Riviera hotels become first-class grand-stands - and here's a flash of the race progress. Stirling Moss first; Peter Collins second.
(both of Britain) and Jean Behra of France third.

Stirling Moss (No. 28, has been leading from the start - ~~and the~~ driving his Maserati with masterly skill.

No 26 -

And here's World Champion Juan Fangio ∧ striving to make up lost seconds following a second-lap pile-up...  BRING UP.

~~A bitter disappointment for England Britain came when the two Vanwalls -
(who recently triumphed over Grand Prix cars at Silverstone) were early casualties..~~

Following the pile-up - Fangio took over the Ferrari, driven by Peter Collins . ~~and~~ Then ^he lapped car after car - as he made up vital seconds on STIRLING Moss... driving AGAINST        team-mate
This was the supreme test ~~of~~ for Moss -/~~against~~ his former ~~team~~

~~mileage~~
AND MOSS
~~and he~~ came through with flying colours - to win his first International Grand Prix on the Continent, AND ~~Here was the chequered flag for~~ the first British victory in the Monaco Grand Prix...

Stirling Moss had won at an average speed of 64.94 miles per hour - and ~~that~~ many were the congratulations - for the race counts for the World Championship...

Then - ~~after~~ the final triumph - a lap of honour by Stirling Moss - Britain's top speed king...
