

Egypt: Ever since it was built, in 1869, the Suez Canal (that vital commercial and strategic waterway) has been operated by the international company that financed its construction.

Now, Colonel Nasser, the Egyptian President, has announced the seizure of the Canal, the income to build the Aswan High Dam, which Britain and the U.S. Ahave refused to finance.

The President's speech, mode on the third continues of mationalism.

This dramatic news (of vital interest to Britain, since we own nearly half the Company shares) was conveyed to the Premier during a dinner, given to King Feisal, at No. 10. Sir Anthony was, therefore, able to discuss an urgent situation with a staunch Middle East friend.
