

Ireland: The famous Showgrounds, at Ballsbridge, become the showwindow for a thriving bloodstock industry with the opening of the Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show.

There's an international appeal, too, at this "Festival of the Horse" - with Ireland's Captain Barry, on "Ballyneety" among the riders from seven countries, in the first big jumping event.

Riding his own horse "Night Owl" is Bill Steinkraus of ^{the U.S.A -} ~~Germany~~... recent winner of the King George V Cup, at the White City.

Always a favourite at any jumping arena, Colonel Llewellyn's first mount was "Aherlow". They had four faults for the special course of twelve fly fences.

But the ~~day's honours really went to~~ ^{CHEERS WENT TO} Col. Llewellyn's gallant veteran "Foxhunter". After two clear rounds - he tied for second place on the speed test.

Foxhunter's time was $29\frac{3}{5}$ seconds. But here's a dashing Brazilian rider, Nelson Pessoa on "Relincha" ^{who beat} ~~beating~~ that time by one-fifth of a second.

~~to win the first round in a week of Anglo-Brazilian~~

NEVERTHELESS, THE OLD FAVOURITE "FOXHUNTER" WINS THE APPLAUSE.
