Braemar Gathering-

Sept 7th. '56.

Scotland-- Set amid the grandeur of the ~~hills~~ hills- Deeside was in holiday mood when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived with their children (who were wearing ^{the} Balmoral ^{kilt} ~~kilts~~) for the annual Braemar Gathering.

One of the highlights of the meeting was, ^{of course,} the incomparable Highland Dancing • ~~the dancing~~

And the Royal Party took a keen interest in all the ^{athletic} ~~sporting~~ events which go to make up this ^{magnificent} ~~grand~~ open-air pageant.

Among the feats of strength was the tossing of the giant Braemar caber- 19 feet long and weighing 119 lbs. ~~the caber~~

While the march-past of the massed bands of pipers provided a glittering finale to one of Scotland's most colourful sporting occasions.
