

Earl's Court: Despite the setback of the credit squeeze, the car ~~industry~~ industry bounces back into the limelight. But don't worry, this M.G. exhibit hasn't bounced too far - it's just another new idea on presentation - at the ~~London~~ 41st International Motor Show. Among the special exhibits is the Rover Gas-Turbine Car - the first in the field. And although it's not yet on sale - it points the future road of British motoring.

In the caravan section, you can find all the comforts of home <sup>2</sup> while from the Rootes Group, the Singer Gazelle is one of the few really new cars on show. ~~Reported to be the most expensive~~

So it attracted the interest of film stars <sup>JAMES</sup> Robertson Justice and Brenda de Banzie.

Another star attraction - (at least for John Gregson, Anne Haywood and April O'Leary) - was the Triumph T.R.3 - the 100 miles-per-hour plus sports car with the plastic body.

Altogether, there are nearly three hundred models on view, and if you're thinking about a new one, Well - it may work out cheaper than taking ~~the~~
