

There were

Cardiff: Home cheers at Ninian Park as Wales kicked off against Scotland. But six minutes later, Trevor Ford scored, and those cheers became a mighty Welsh roar

~~IN THE~~ Scotland (~~distinguished by their~~ darker shirts) soon got going again, and a long shot tested Jack Kelsey.

Then, Fernie crowned a brilliant dribble with a great goal. A happy Scotland, and why not? - they hadn't lost at Cardiff for nineteen years.

But Wales had other ideas and almost immediately, Medwin restored their lead.

This, thought the Welsh fans, is that long-awaited victory!

X For the second time, Scotland kicked off, and then came a goal-mouth incident that could have spoiled the game. Goalkeeper Jack Kelsey ^{TOOK} ~~took~~ a heavy toss.

~~And the Welsh roar became a howl of protest. "Do you want to kill him, man?"~~

Jack went limping back into his goal - ready for more. But the fall had ~~shaken him up~~ shaken him up - for soon after - he misjudged a save - and Reilly scored for Scotland.

~~Half-time.~~ Wales Two. Scotland Two. with sixty thousand fans enjoying the spills as much as the thrills. One spill and he won't enjoy ^{anything} ~~anything~~.

The second half brought some dangerous Welsh attacks as they tried to lay that Scottish bogey - but this time, Big George Young kept them out. ~~What?~~ At the other end, Ray Daniel was blocking the middle and a ~~Wales~~ Scottish scoring effort...

So, to the final minutes, with Wales going mighty close ^{TO A GOAL} ~~and Scotland~~ claiming a penalty - but in vain, honours were left even.. a hard-fought two-all draw...
