

Antarctic Expedition-

Nov 16th. '56.

London-- Lying at Butler's Wharf is the 2,200 ton motor vessel "Magga Dan"- the wonder ship of Polar Exploration.

And there's ~~May~~ a Royal farewell for Dr Fuchs and his gallant team of explorers of the Commonwealth Trans-Antarctic Expeditions ^{AND ROYAL SOCIETY'S} before the start of their ~~great~~ 9000 mile voyage ~~across the Antarctic wastes~~ to the South Pole.

~~During her tour of the ship, the Queen was shown some of the~~ ~~most interesting objects of the Antarctic expedition, including~~

Time for the ^{final} ~~last~~ leave-taking, before ~~an adventure which has~~ ^{WHAT HAS BEEN CALLED "THE LAST GREAT ADVENTURE LEFT TO MAN:"} before ~~been achieved~~ ^{ACHIEVED}

And as Dr Fuchs and his party (who take with them ~~the chronometer~~ ^{LONDON} used by Capt Scott on his last Polar journey) disappeared into the gloom, we say "Bon Voyage, and a safe return"

Another ~~London~~ Royal occasion, when the Queen, as Sovereign of the Order of the Bath) arrived at Westminster Abbey for its most colourful ceremony since the Coronation. ^{THIS WAS THE FIRST INSTALLATION CEREMONY SINCE 1951 OF THE ORDER WHICH DATES BACK TO 1399.} Among the distinguished ~~service~~ service chiefs to receive the signal

^{RE HONOURED.} [^] honour, were Field-Marshal Earl Alexander, General Sir Gerald Templer, and Admiral of the Fleet- the Earl Mountbatten of Burma.
