

Scotland: In the John Brown Shipyards, on Clydebank, a 22,000 ton Cunarder spotlights a great achievement in British ship-building - for she is the fourth vessel of her size to be launched in well under three years.

Built for Canadian service, ^{SHE} ~~the new vessel~~ was christened "Sylvania" by Mrs Norman Robertson, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner, and with the traditional champagne send-off - ^{THE NEW ONE} she went down ~~to the water~~ the slipway.

A twin-screw turbine vessel (with accommodation for nearly nine hundred passengers) the "Sylvania" will join her sister ships, the "Saxonia", the "~~IVERNIA~~" and the "Carinthia" - to meet the growing needs of Canadian expansion...
