

Spurs defeat Hungary4th December 1956

London: Looking unfamiliar in ~~an~~ all-white kit, Tottenham kicked off against M.T.K. Hungaria - under floodlights at White Hart Lane. ^

The Hungarians who achieved such fame as Red Banner were first to attack.

Then the Spurs turned on their familiar brand of dazzling soccer - with four goals in thirty minutes. Here's the second, scored by George Robb

Just before half-time, Palotas scored for the visitors.

By now, the Hungarians were bringing on substitutes ad lib. The Spurs were content to pile on the goals, for a shattering seven-one victory.