Cambridge Crew-

London-- Gracefully enjoying the spring sunshine, the swans at Putney were somewhat disturbed by a new attraction on the river- the Cambridge crew having its first outing.

With only one Old Blue (the President, M.S. Delahook), the Light Blues concede the vital asset of experience. But with two Americans in the boat, they ~~may~~ rely on <sup>a</sup> trans-atlantic pull over their rivals.

Magga Dan-

Down London River, the research ship "Magga Dan" ties up in the Pool, with the members of the advance party of the Royal Society's South Polar Expedition on board.

And what a welcome home for these gallant men who had been away for over a year, preparing the main base for the party under Dr Fuchs + <sup>their</sup> vital contribution to the future success of the Expedition, <sup>THAT</sup> is hoping to make the first-ever crossing of the Antarctic Continent.

Bermuda-

BERMUDA--The luxurious Mid-Ocean Club is ~~now~~ ready for the top-level conference between President Eisenhower and Mr Macmillan.

~~The club is a fine example of modern architecture and is a most attractive place to stay.~~

Britain's Prime Minister will use the suite once occupied by Sir Winston Churchill. A relaxed setting for the task of building-up Anglo-American friendship.

Wedding-

London-- Arriving at the Liberal Jewish Synagogue for her wedding to actor Neil Landau, Miss Diane Johnston had a Guard of ~~Honour~~ Honour of 64 attractive choristers. They were members of the Ulster Girl's Choir from Belfast. ~~and~~ <sup>herself</sup> the bride was a member ~~herself~~ for several years, before coming to London to take up ~~now~~ a modelling course.

Now the happy pair leave for their new life together- <sup>with a song in</sup> their hearts <sup>along for company</sup>
