London: The Royal Tournament

7th June 1957

Earl's Court: As Britain enters the push-button age, the Royal Tournament helps to preserve military traditions like the famous Musical Drive by the Royal Horse Artillery...

An evergreen favourite, the Field-Gun-Display revives the exciting rivalry between Commands of the Royal Navy. Here, the Fleet Air Arm (last year's champions) match their manhandling skill against Devonport. While the Massed Bands of the Royal Marines add to a martial occasion that benefits Service Charities...
