

2845

Derby Week - that great racing holiday - has been just another job for the "man-in-blue"

Long before the famous Downs filled up - the policeman was on duty. This life of service begins - for many, at the Hendon Police School...

There, the transformation is made from citizen to constable by arduous training that includes the bringing of control and order to Britain's congested highways.

The Constable often saves life <sup>by</sup> ~~in~~ <sup>means -</sup> other ~~circumstances~~ - such as the prompt application of artificial respiration. / S

Service to the road-user: getting down the facts following a street accident.

As training progresses - the ~~men~~ recruits tackle knotty law-problems - and learn the essentials of court procedure.

Advanced methods of detection demand efficient inside staff; shorthand and typing ability ~~sometimes~~ <sup>often</sup> lead to the criminal investigation branches. <sup>HERE ARE THE FIRST STEPS / CUC</sup>

Finally, the recruits pass-out - with a golden rule for the future from the Chief. / SOUND.

~~constable to be a policeman~~
~~Today, the police-constable is~~ an adviser, a protector, night-watchman, timekeeper and friend - revealing ~~these~~ qualities that inspire ~~confidence~~ confidence and trust in the "man-in-blue" /