

On the historic meadow at Runnymede - from which sprang the foundation of English liberty, over seven centuries ago, the American Bar Association has erected a temple ~~to the Magna Carta~~

On this spot, the great Charter of Freedom was forced upon King John, in 1215. This is a copy (treasured by the British Museum) of a document that has become the pattern of justice throughout the world - ^{wherever} ~~where~~ man cherishes individual ~~freedom~~ liberty.

After receiving an oak plaque - a grateful gift from the Bar Council - the President of the American Association, Mr Maxwell unveiled the memorial - ^{(in Portland Stone) - The work of} ~~the work of~~ Sir Edward Maufe.

~~The following day - the members of the American Bar Association were honoured by a garden party - given by the Queen at Buckingham Palace... three~~
Some ~~five~~ ^{three} thousand American lawyers and their wives are in Britain - ~~for legal discussions with their British counterparts~~ attending legal discussions in the home of liberty.
