Hydroplane racing

SEATTLE
~~America~~: A starting roar - and there they go - fifteen monster hydroplanes - skimming over Lake Washington - in the 50th annual Gold Cup Race.

In a cloud of spray, "Miss Wahoo" flashes by - overtaking the leader in this ninety mile race.

The fastest-propellor-driven boats in the world - they're topping 100 miles per hour.

And last year's winner, ~~Miss Thriftway~~ "Miss Thriftway" comes roaring home with reckless abandon - another Gold Cup triumph for speed-ace Bill Muncy.

~~xxxx~~ Snark stand-in

Meanwhile, at Cape Canaveral, the cameras roll and a stand-in gets the spotlight in a high-powered send-off.../s

It's a dummy guided missile -(acting for the costly "Snark")- ~~is~~ testing ~~xxxxxx~~ a new mobile launching-ramp at the U.S. Air Force Research Centre... But it never reaches the stars.

Through this valuable research work, the ramp is perfected - and the REAL "Snark" rises to the occasion in an awe-inspiring performance.

Australian radar.

Australia: A watchful sentinel over Sydney Harbour as the new ~~one-million~~ one-million-pound Radar Station, at Brookvale, mounts ~~guard~~ a round-the-clock guard on this strategic Eastern Gateway.

The first big test comes with "Operation Oxeart" - an imaginary aerial attack on the city.

Height and location are quickly plotted - and within minutes - Sabre Jets are screaming away to intercept the raiders.

~~xxxxxx~~ ~~xxxxxx~~ ~~xxxxxx~~ (Behind large transparent screens, operators plot the enemy's course - writing in reverse, so that Control (on the other side)- can direct the fighters into battle - using the eyes of science.
