TELEVISION GRAB.

15/11/57

From height - to death.

^ Salvage men searching the bed of Lake Constance for wreckage of a Swiss aircraft, have made the first use of a new kind of implement in salvage work. It's a grab, fitted with a television camera, which enables the men in the pilot boat to see on a screen what is happening under the water. The grab is actually operating at the enormous depth of six hundred and eighty feet below the surface. As soon as the camera locates any object --- such as an aero engine --- the grab is dropped and hauls it ~~up~~ ~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~ up.
