

Swedish Fire

Sweden: A mystery blaze in Stockholm dockyard made a tough task for the City's firemen - striving to get it under control.

The fierce outbreak which gutted the Royal Swedish Navy's Equipment Stores caused great financial loss.

Parachute Doctors

America: This may seem a strange way for a doctor to make his rounds. But these medical teams of the U.S. Air Force are competing in a Championship Rescue contest, in Florida.

Besides undergoing specialist medical training, these candidates have all passed out as parachutists - so they know just how to land without becoming a casualty themselves. An emergency landing that may save lives.

Fur fashions

and pieces

New York: A nip in the air often means a pinched look in the bank-balance. Yes, it's fur time - combining snug comfort with the lines of high fashion.

For casual sports wear, the fur is otter. The collar and cuffs are mink.

Here's a winter warmer, with a fan-collar of chinchilla. Now what do you want for Christmas?

P/1st Class Bear

Berlin: After six months of outstanding service, Private Second Class Teddy Bear, U.S. Army has been posted. After clawing his way into the hearts of the 6th Infantry Regiment - <sup>the mascot</sup> ~~Private Teddy~~ attends his farewell parade. DURING THE READING OF THE FAREWELL ADDRESS TEDDY BEHAVES IN A MANNER MOST UNMILITARY! It is not that Teddy has little enough respect for discipline. He has dug countless fox-holes in the barracks and his attempts to desert have kept the whole Regiment on its toes.

Private Bear is getting too big for the Army - so he's being transferred to Washington..... Zoo.
