

After four days and three nights on the road - a Citroen speeds down into Monte Carlo. It's tired rew were the winners of the world's toughest rally.

The 2,000 mile drive was over and, once again, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace came to present the coveted trophies. This year, it proved almost a home team victory. French cars filled the first four places.

A British car, however, with the factor at the wheel had a fair share of the honours. Pat Moss and Ann Wisdom, the European Rally champions, won the Ladies' Cup - driving an Austin A.40..

A partition moment for two places girls who finished 20th out of the 322 starters. Well, it's one more trophy for the mantelpiece in the Moss family home at Tring. Eak It prompts a thought. Do Pat and Stirling silver clean up the Experimental as well as the opposition?

This year, the great rally was overshadowed by the tragic death of Mike Hawthorn. In Monte Carlo, rally drivers of many national attendance with the same at the same attendance with the attended a Memorial Service...paying their own special tribute to