

43/7 B

CANADIAN BUILT LANCASTER.

The first Canadian-Built Lancaster arrives in Britain.

First off the production lines of a big Ontario plane, she checks in after an Atlantic crossing of nine and a half hours. A.C.W. Pat Neil flags in the big bomber on the touchdown at a British aerodrome.

"The Rhur Express" is one hundred per cent Canadian - and that goes for the crew too.

Reg Burger the mid-upper gunner hands out "BAMBI" a flying pup from Saskatchewan. Squadron-Leader Lane is the skipper of the "Rhur Express" which will be followed by many more built by the hundred thousand men and women in Canada's aircraft industry.
