

43-776

BATTLES IN THE SKIES.

American Thunderbolt pilots get the "gun".

What these men are about to do will be released to you in a series of pictures automatically photographed during combat. The Thunderbolts head East.

The peel-off for attack. Synchronized cameras shooting with the guns record the end of an F.W. 190 attacked by Lieutenant Glare.

Lieutenant Beeson knocks off an F.W. 190 and an M.E. 109.

Two M.E.'s fall to the guns of Captain Schreiber.

Lieutenant Mills chalks up an F.W.190.

Lieutenant Happel presses the gun button and down goes another.

An M.E. 110 blows up as Lt. McCauley knotes up three kills.

These combat films bear evidence to the sky battles which daily rage over Western Europe. Here's the control Tower giving landing directions.

Just another fighter station out of the dozens employed in the non-stop allied air offensive from the unsinkable aircraft carrier -BRITAIN.