PRINCESS JULIANA VISITS DUTCH COLONIES.

Transport for a Princess over the Spanish Main. Juliana of the Netherlands travels by air-liner over the blue waters of the Caribbean. She's on her way to visit Dutch Guiana and the Colonies of the West Indies. Victory V inscribed in an O for the House of Orange at the St. Eustatius Airfield. This is the first time Princess Juliana has set foot on free Dutch soil since the Germans drove her from her native Holland. It's a gala day with the girls dressed in the height of fashion. A royal welcome, with many a strange Dutch custom brought out for the occasion.

In Paramaribo Capital of Dutch Guiana, the Princess reviews a military parade. Dutch and American units stationed in the Colony march before the Crown Princess of all the Netherlands.
