THE END OF THE SCHARNHORST.

Pathé Gazette cameramen were sent North to record the official pictures and personal accounts of the victors of the North Cape action. It is aboard the Battleship DUKES OF YORK that we take you to hear individual reports on the sinking of the SCHARNHORST.

In the destroyer force was the Norwegian ship STORD.

Captain Bain presses home his claim that the Cruiser NORFOLK won distinction in several ways.

The Cruiser formation was under the command of Vice-Admiral Barnett flying his flag in the "BELFAST".

Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser. The Commander-in-Chief of the Home Fleets has this to say.

In spite of the Navy's modest desire to claim no inordinate praise for the action, the nation realises what our VERY able seamen accomplished; another glowing testament in the annals of the British Navy.
