THE "QUEEN MARY" IN AUSTRALIA.

Wearing her drab war paint, the 81,000 ton QUEEN MARY enters Australian waters. Many times during the war she has sailed there in her new role of troopship. Beneath her battle dress is still discernable the grace and beauty of bygone days. A five million pound triumph of British shipbuilding.

QUEEN MARY took men to Singapore and has shipped Americans to Australian. She has carried as many as 14,000 troops in one shipload. The luxury liner of yesterday has a fine war record.

On her way - a proud ship with a gallant Company.
