PATHE GAZETTE PRESENTS... 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE MOVIES.

Golden Anniversary of Motion Pictures. Credit for the foundation of this mighty industry goes to W. Friese Green of Britain, Thomas Edison, America and Lumiere of France. The peephole gadget, is Edison's Kinetoscope, one of the first machines to create the impression of pictures actually moving. And here's the Grand-Daddy of all stars - - Arthur White - - probably the oldest living movie actor. He appeared in one of the first feature films. Let's go back fifty years or so and resurrect his "Life of a Fireman" dreaming of home and fireside. Then comes the call. Up and at 'em, Winter undies and all, as the professor at the piano banged out a hot tune. Not going there boys, and don't spare the horses.

Fireman save my child! Don't worry lady, he will.

From melodrama to comedy. An early MAX LINDER rib tickler from France. Slapstick with a flypaper. How we laughed - and still do - at the sticky situation of the courting couple.

Now, a rare bit of news photography - - the Coronation of Edward the Seventh in 1902. Pathe, the Pioneer and oldest newsreel in the world has many such valuable records in its second-to-none library.

Slap me down! if it weren't real I wouldn't believe it. Fashions of the gay nineties - - how the blazes could they go gay in all that!

Faith, Hope, Charity and the Covered Wagen... the original pin-up girls.

The birth of that now firmly established institution, the Bathing Beauty Parade. Gosh, weren't they sweet!

You can laugh - but these girls had something - - - somewhere.

First of the glamour girls - - Lillian Russell in person and plenty.

Part two will follow immediately. This sort of thing happened because the cinemas of these days had only one projector,

It was the age of innocence in the realm of sport. Ah, the heady thrill of lawn tennis; the giddy pace kept the umpire in a dizzy whirl. Play up Kitty, give him socks.

Flash-back to fisticuffs. Prize fighters Tommy Burns and Bill Squires contesting the Heavyweight title. One of the first fights to be filmed. The Australian Bill Squires took the count in the first round.

Another historic spectacle from the Pathe Library. Brilliantly uniformed Lifeguards at the unveiling of the Victoria Memorial opposite Buckingham Palace in 1911. Many crowned heads were there, including the Kaiser. Three years later came World War Number One.

What a sensation - - the horseless carriage, Some people thought these new-fangled automobiles to be an invention of the devil - - One or two owners began to agree.

50 YEARS LATER.

Miracle of the Movies today. The film industry harnessed to the war effort, is bringing entertainment to men at battle stations around the globe. Free pictures shown to Allied Fighting men.

Across Continents and Oceans screen stars bring a touch of home. Today, easing the burdens of war, tomorrow brightening and enlightening a world at peace.
